Fostering Equity and Inclusive Excellence
May 4 Open House

We had a wide ranging and interesting conversation with about 8 people in the room and 8 online.

The conversation focused on
- making the online environment more welcoming
- creating greater access to the online environment
- making sure international students feel they belong at UND
- remembering that UND can feel like a "bubble" – people who are accepted on campus often do not feel accepted in the community
- minoritized students living in our community would benefit from UND being engaged in conversations around fair housing, relations with the police and with health care providers
